

mY JOURNEY

Noting down your journey so far, and thinking about where it might take you in the future, is a great way of taking stock of your successes and might help you to formulate some short or long-term goals. We're big on sharing career journeys at The Creative Occupation so once you're done, why not visit our Journeys blog to see how other members responded?

Where I've been

How did I get started? What was my training?
What was my first job and was it related to what I went on to do?

Where I am

What do I do in my current role? What is my process/practice? What are my projects or passions? Who do I work with or for?

Where I'm going

Where do I want my journey to take me? Do I have a dream role, client or project? What's in the pipeline that I'm excited about?
